HOBO COLLEGE ABOUT TO OPEN

Institution on Washington Boulevard Lacks Only Books.

Chicago next week will boast of an educational institution which cannot be duplicated in the world. It is the International Hobo college. The campus is at 915-17 West Washington Boulevard.

Following registration, classes will be organized and Health Commissioner Robertson will welcome the students by speaking of the dangers which confront them in the lodging houses and will explain how they can cooperate with him in enforcing the law by reporting insanitary conditions whenever they find them.

10 Alumni Number: 200

The college was founded a year ago by the Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker and graduated more than 200 students equipped with a thorough knowledge of vagrancy laws and the principles of first aid and personal hygiene. This year education will be continued along the same lines.

The most pressing need of the college is books. The Rev. Mr. Tucker asks for donations of old school books, reference works and fiction to fill the now vacant shelves of the college library. Students will call for the books if donors will notify the college at what address the books may be obtained.

This year the faculty of the university consists of Dr. John Cousins and Dr. David Greer, who will instruct classes on personal hygiene and first aid; Michael Walsh, a former newspaper man, will teach English and journalism, and Samuel Holland of the workers' institute, with some law students, will give lectures on vagrancy laws of the different states.

The Athletic Department

Next week the athletic department of the college will be organized. Dean Walter Pond of the Cathedral of SS. Peter and Paul has offered the use of the cathedral gymnasium to hobo athletes twice a week.

Hobos who learned jiu jitsu from the Japanese will instruct wrestlers from lumber camps and exponents of the French savate (feet fighting) will exchange blows with American boxers.

The hobos are migratory workers, according to the Rev. Mr. Tucker, and the college is going to make the name respectable. The name hobo, he continues, should not be confused with bum or tramp. Hobos have no use for either of these. The bum never works and stays in one place, while the tramp never works and travels.

By the time I had lost heart. I passed many houses by without venturing up to them. All houses looked alike, and none looked "good". After walking half a dozen blocks I shook off my despondency and gathered my "nerve". This begging for food was all a game, and if I didn't like the cards, I could always call for a new deal. I made up my mind to tackle the next house. I approached it in the deepening twilight, going around to the kitchen door.

I knocked softly, and when I saw the kind face of the middle-aged woman who answered, as by inspiration came to me the "story" I was to tell. For know that upon his ability to tell a good story depends the success of the beggar. First of all, and on the instant, the beggar must "size up" his victim. After that, he must tell a story that will appeal to the peculiar personality and temperament of that particular victim. And right here arises the great difficulty: in the instant that he is sizing up the victim he must begin his story. Not a minute is allowed for preparation. As in a lightning flash he must divine the nature of the victim and conceive a tale that will hit home. The successful hobo must be an artist. He must create spontaneously and instantaneously—and not upon a theme selected from the plenitude of his own imagination, but upon the theme he reads in the face of the person who opens the door, be it man, woman, or child, sweet or crabbed, generous or miserly, good-natured or cantankerous, Jew or Gentile, black or white, race-prejudiced or brotherly, provincial or universal, or whatever else it may be. I have often thought that to this training of my tramp days is due much of my success as a story-writer. In order to get the food whereby I lived, I was compelled to tell tales that rang true. At the back door, out of inexorable necessity, is developed the convincingness and sincerity laid down by all authorities on the art of the short-story. Also, I quite believe it was my tramp-apprenticeship that made a realist out of me. Realism constitutes the only goods one can exchange at the kitchen door for grub.

30 After all, art is only consummate artfulness, and artfulness saves many a "story".
